LOCAL SELECTION

SINGLE MALT WHISKY

Solan Gold 450
Sweet, woody, and oaky, with palette of apples, dry spice and toffee

RUM

Old Monk Legend 200
Notes of caramel, chocolate, ripe peach and vanilla

WHISKY

HIGHLAND MALTS

Highland single malt is usually made from 100% malted barley at a single distillery in a pot still. Highland whiskies are bold, flavourful, and frequently made with peat-kilned barley for a delightful smoky quality.

Oban 14 years old 1000
Smoky, creamy palate with notes of marmalade, toffee, apples, and pear cider

Singleton of Glen Ord 12 year old 550
Fruity and well-balanced with flavours of plum and ginger

LOWLAND MALTS

Lowland whiskies are not always made with barley, instead being made with wheat or corn at times, which would make it a grain whisky. Peat also plays a much less prominent role in the flavour. This generally creates a light, grassy style that is used as a base for blended Scotch. Classic Lowlands single malts are triple-distilled, much like Irish whiskey.

Glenkinchie 12 year old 825
Very fruity, and oaky on the palate

All prices are in Indian rupees. Our standard measure is 30 ml.

BLENDED

A blended whisky is the product of blending different types of whiskies, sometimes with the addition of neutral grain spirits, colourings, and flavourings. It is generally the product of mixing one or more high-quality straight or single malt whiskies with less expensive spirits and other ingredients.
